

Township Takes Frankel Case to Supreme Court

Hearing Set for January; Meanwhile Land Is Cleared in Merion

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania will be the next battleground in Lower Merion Township's fight to prevent Ephraim J. Frankel from erecting an apartment house at the corner of Old Lancaster Rd. and N. Latches Lane, Merion.

In January, it was learned this week, John E. Forsythe, township solicitor, will go before the state's highest tribunal to appeal a decision handed down in July by Montgomery County Judge Harold G. Knight that Frankel is within his rights in proceeding with building operations.

The property in question, storm center of a legal battle for more than two years, is now being cleared by a demolition company in preparation for building.

The township, backed by the Merion Civic Association, the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club and a large number of property owners, contends that Frankel is not within his rights, because the area in question has been rezoned to a classification which precludes multiple dwellings.

At the time Frankel purchased the property it was in an R-5 residential zone, which allows multiple dwellings, but three months later, after a building permit had been issued to Frankel, it was reclassified R-3, which prohibits them.

Fundamentally, the issue to be decided by the Supreme Court is whether the township has a legal right to re-zone a property after a permit has been issued for a building which conforms to the requirements of the original zoning classification.

The case began on April 25, 1945, when Frankel offered $65,000 to Mr. and Mrs. Max Rothstein for the property. Settlement was to be completed in December, 1945.

On May 14, the Merion Civic Association passed a resolution authorizing its officers to take any steps necessary to prevent the erection of the six-story apartment house which Frankel proposed to build and to cooperate with the owners of adjoining properties in an effort to have the zoning changed. Later the Civic Association was joined by the neighborhood club and by Dr. Albert Barnes, of the Barnes Foundation, Joseph V. and Viola Malkin.

On June 13, at 9:20 A. M., a petition was filed with the board of zoning adjustment asking a change of zoning. The same afternoon Frankel applied for a building permit.

Pianist Will Play In Wayne Friday

Concert Is Third in Tri-County Fall Series

The Tri-County Concerts Association will present the young pianist, Jacob Leteliner, in a recital at Radnor High School, Wayne, Friday, November 21, at 8:30 P. M.

Leteliner, who was born in 1928 in Havana, Cuba, of Polish parents, gave his first public recital there at the age of 7. In 1944, while attending the Curtis Institute, he won the Philadelphia Orchestra Youth Contest, making his American debut here with the orchestra under Eugene Ormandy in December of that year.

He made a U. S. concert tour in 1945-46 and following his graduation from Curtis this past summer, appeared as soloist with the N. B. C. Symphony and with the Boston Symphony under Serge Koussevitzky at the Berkshire Festival.

His recital in Wayne will be the third and final event in the Tri-County Association's fall series of admission-free concerts, which has already included the Gulliet String Quartet and Roland Hayes. A spring series will be announced.

Royer to Direct Xmas Seal Sale

The annual Christmas Seal Sale will open Monday, November 24, the Rev. Robert J. Gottschall, President of the Montgomery County Tuberculosis Society, announced this week.

Local chairmen assisting the Rev. Mr. Gottschall in the campaign include Frank C. Royer for the Main Line district.

Lower Merion High Gridders Seek 13th Straight In 51st Game With Radnor Saturday at Villanova

By JACK FORD

Sports Editor

Lower Merion High School's unbeaten football team, on the threshold of its first unbeaten season since 1943, will meet Radnor, an ancient and highly respected rival, in their 51st annual classic this Saturday afternoon at Villanova College stadium.

An anticipated 15,000 spectators will be on hand for the 2 P. M. kickoff. Special buses will transport Lower Merion to the game from the senior high school building beginning at noon.

Lower Merion will be seeking its 22d series victory, having routed

Radnor by 51-7 last year to take a 21-20 lead in the lengthy rivalry.

Nine games have resulted in ties. Thus far this year, Lower Merion has rolled over nine rivals and over a two-year span boasts 12 straight victories. The Ardmore Aces upset Norristown, Chester and Radnor in their concluding games last year to start the string.

Beaten by Coach Dick Mattis' charges thus far have been Norristown, Philadelphia city scholastic champion; Overbrook, Easton, Abington, Haverford, Ridley Township, Upper Darby, Norristown and Chester. Only Abington, which bowed by 21-14 when L. M. rallied in the concluding quarter, and Upper Darby, a 14-13 victim, extended the Mattis men.

Lower Merion will be at full strength for the traditional tussle except for Bill Buck, left end, who suffered a concussion in the Norristown game. He will don a suit, but isn't expected to see any action.

Local Playhouse To Stage Comedy

Barry Thompson and Mrs. Haig to Star

The cast has been chosen and rehearsals are under way for the Main Line Playhouse's second performance of the season, Patterson Greene's well-known comedy, "Papa Is All."

Story of a Pennsylvania Dutch family, the comedy depicts the rebellion of a wife, son and daughter against a "mean" papa.

Barry E. Thompson, of Cynwyd, member of the Wayne Footlighters and Philadelphia Sketch Club, will portray the tyrannical papa. The long-suffering mama will be played by Mrs. John Haig, of Germantown, an active member of the Hathaway Shakespeare Club.

A former Narberth Player, Philip Bentz, of Philadelphia, will enact the role of the son Jake; while daughter Emma will be played by Mrs. Leo McDermott, of Ardmore. Mrs. McDermott is also chairman of the Playhouse's workshop group. The part of the neighbor, Mrs. Yoder, will be taken by Mrs. Karl Williams, of Narberth, corresponding secretary of the playhouse and a former Narberth Player. Paul McVikar, of Philadelphia, will portray the state trooper role.

The play, which is being directed by Robert Teter, of Narberth, will be staged in Lower Merion High School auditorium on Saturday evening, December 13.

Dr. Frew to Speak at M. L. Ministerial Meeting

Dr. Allan MacLachlan Frew, minister of the Ardmore Presbyterian Church, will speak on "Report From Western Europe" at the Main Line Ministerial luncheon meeting in the Main Line YMCA Tuesday noon.

Dr. Frew traveled in England, Belgium, Holland, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Denmark and Scotland last summer. As chairman of the Philadelphia Presbyterian Restoration Fund and chairman of Presbyteries Committee on Foreign Missions, he evaluated the need and the job already done by the Restoration Fund.

The Rev. Harold S. Faust, of Christ Presbyterian Church, Overbrook Hills, newly elected president of the association, will preside.

School Board Preparing Publicity Bulletin

Lower Merion School Board announced at its meeting Monday night that a publicity bulletin is being prepared, and will be distributed to the parents of all public school children in the township.

It is understood that the bulletin, designed to acquaint parents with the function and activities of school board members, will be repeated at intervals throughout the year.

Santa and Kitten Chief Concern of Youngsters As Home Burns

While Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd firemen fought a $40,000 house blaze in Merion for over an hour Wednesday afternoon, young Peter Klingensmith, 5-year-old son of the owners, worried as to whether or not Santa Claus would bother coming to a burnt house.

Sergeant Dan Magee, of the Lower Merion Township Police, assured the lad that Santa would come anyway, and also reassured him that new toys and Christmas presents stored in a second floor bedroom were safe.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Louise Klingensmith, 36, when she went out to feed the dog in the back yard of her home at 617 Zolinger Way. Seeing billows of smoke pouring from the roof, she rushed to the front of the house and saw that the roof was a mass of flames.

Hurrying into the kitchen where Peter was talking to the maid, Myrtle Williams, she told them to leave while she called the fire company. When the Narberth Company arrived the flames were shooting 30 feet into the air, and large embers were floating about the yard. William B. Titlow, Jr., Assistant Fire

Marshall of Lower Merion Township, immediately radioed the Union Fire Company of Bala-Cynwyd for assistance.

Titlow estimated the damages to the three-story stone and shingle house at $40,000. The roof was burned out, the third floor gutted, and water damage to the first and second floors was extensive, he said. He said the fire probably started when sparks from burning rubbish ignited the shingle roof.

Dr. Paul O. Klingensmith, an obstetrician associated with the University and Lying-In Hospitals, was called home from Philadelphia by his wife.

A daughter, Louise, 9, came home from the Bowman Ave. School shortly after the fire started. She, too, was worried until she received assurance from Sgt. Magee that her kitten was safe. Magee had tried to rescue the cat from the sun porch, but the animal disdained his overtures and remained comfortably curled up on a chair throughout the blaze.

Another son, Paul, 11, is a student at Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School. He was not at home at the time of the fire.

Overbrook Club Outlines Program

Lecture Series Includes Gen. Donovan and Others

"Intelligence and Foreign Policy" will be the second lecture in the current season for the Overbrook Lecture Club. Major General William J. Donovan, director of the Office of Strategic Services, will present this topic December 18, at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, City Line and Haverford Ave.

The Very Rev. Gerald Vann, O.P., Superior of the English Dominican School, Laxton, England, will speak on "Man, The Maker," January 14, a few days before he returns to England.

"Atomic Energy, A New World or a World Destroyed," will be the subject of the next lecture, February 4. The speaker will be Dr. Hugh Stott Taylor, chairman of the department of chemistry at Princeton University and an international authority in his field.

The Hon. Guillermo Belt, ambassador from Cuba to the United States, will discuss "The Pan-American Way to Peace" March 12. Dr. Belt is representing Cuba at the current sessions of the United Nations.

The concluding lecture, April 9, will be on "The Theatre Today," and will be given by the Rev. Gilbert Vincent Hartke, O.P., head of the department of speech and drama at Catholic University of America.

JURORS EXCUSED

Jurors excused from Montgomery County Civic Court sessions this week include George Martin, Harold King, John Rogers and Eleanor Speary, all of Ardmore; Eleanor Hawley, of Wynnewood; Helen Van Syckel, of Penn Wynne; and Alan L. Warner and Mary A. Ball, both of Bryn Mawr.

Rod and Gun Club Plans Shoot

Turkeys To Be Awarded At Penn Valley Contest

Turkeys will be awarded prizes at the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club's annual pre-Thanksgiving turkey shoot Sunday. The shoot will be held at the Chamberlin Farm in Penn Valley.

In addition to the regular trap-shooting events, there will be spinning boards and still targets to enable others besides the experts to take home holiday birds.

At the Board of Directors' meeting last week, it was reported that a recent club trap shoot drew a record attendance. Henry Hopkins, of Narberth, rifle committee chairman, also announced that club rifles are available to club members every Monday evening at the Lower Merion High School rifle range.

George Purring, also of Narberth, membership committee chairman, reported that regular club meetings are held the third Wednesday of each month, and that dues are $1 a year, except the first year, when there is an additional initiation fee of $1.

Panel Discusses Marshall Plan at Meeting Monday

League of Voters And U. N. Association Sponsor Ardmore Series

"The question on the Marshall Plan is not yes or no, but how much," was the opinion voiced by William L. Rafsky, at a panel discussion on the Marshall Plan Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church, Ardmore.

The panel meeting is the second in a series being sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association of the United Nations Council and the Lower Merion Township League of Women Voters.

Rafsky, director of research and education of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, believes the fight in Congress will be between the Taft recommendation of four to five billion dollars for the first year of the plan, and President Truman's request for nearly seven billion dollars the first year, increasing to a total of nine billion dollars in the first 18 months.

The panel included, besides Rafsky, Miss Allegra Woodworth, history teacher at Shipley School, who served as moderator; Dr. William Sollmann, professor at Pendle Hill School and visiting professor of government at Haverford College, and Miss Lillian Gest, of the board of directors of the Philadelphia League and member of the local League of Women Voters.

Dr. Sollmann, who believes that Europe is turning to some type of planned economy, "possibly socialism," described the proposed peace plan as humanitarian, and the decisive battle in the so-called cold war waging between Russia and the U. S.

Miss Gest reviewed the findings of the three committees appointed last June by the President to study European conditions and the W. Averell Harriman report on European conditions.

Following the discussion, members of the panel answered questions from the audience.

Asked how labor stood on the Marshall plan, Rafsky said the A. F. L. was on record as unambiguously in favor of Truman's request and that the C. I. O. had also given endorsement since Marshall spoke to them, and had aligned any left wing opposition.

In reply to a question asking if it would be wise to put price control on products we sell to Europe rather than have the value of our loan reduced by the high prices put on them by manufacturers here, Dr. Sollmann replied that it is difficult to control without regimentation.

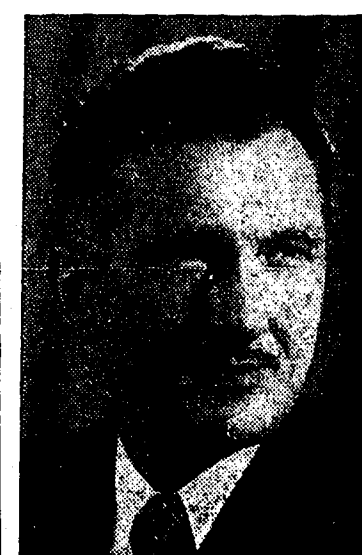

The third meeting under the same sponsorship will be held January 12.

School Mechanics Again In Car Inspection

Garage operators and mechanics in Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd held a second meeting Monday night at Koegler's Garage, Cynwyd. Proper methods of car inspection, conforming to the rules of the State Highway Department were discussed.

A car in a bad state of disrepair was used in a demonstration of technique by the manager and mechanics of Koegler's. Officer John Hogan, of the Pennsylvania State Police, led the demonstration and answered questions from the floor. Hogan explained the necessity for thoroughness in the demonstration, garage men to keep today's automobiles safe for driving.

Imre Kovacs to Speak To Men's Class Dec. 2

Imre Kovacs, an authority on central Europe and the Balkans, and a student of world affairs, will speak at the annual dinner of the Frank E. Baker Men's Class of the Bala-Cynwyd Methodist Church, to be held December 2, at the Robert Morris Hotel, Philadelphia.

Kovacs, who is a living proof that "some people are born in America, others no matter where they were born, were born American," will have as his topic "God's Ways—Not Man's Ways."

He received his formal education in Hungary, Germany, Rumanian and Serbian schools and completed his education at the Yale Graduate School, Lancaster Theological Seminary and the Juilliard School of Music in this country.

Merchants Favor Marshall Plan at Meeting

League Women Sponsor Tariff Reduction Talk By Dr. Frances Fussell

More than 100 Main Line businessmen and members and friends of the Lower Merion Township League of Women Voters, took part in a lively discussion on the proposed tariff reduction, at a meeting in the Baldwin School auditorium, Bryn Mawr, last Wednesday evening.

The speaker, Dr. Frances Fussell, is economic welfare chairman of the state league, and heads the Displaced Persons committee in Philadelphia. She is also professor of economics, and has held positions on the war production board and department of shipping of the state department.

Dr. Fussell's plea that "we support the Marshall plan as a political investment in democracy because we believe that you can join food with freedom for peace" was well received.

However, some of the businessmen pointed out that the reduced tariff, which is part of the plan, will cause a real hardship to many American companies.

One man said that his company would have to do a powerful selling job to offset rival goods coming from foreign companies with cheaper labor, but that, in the interests of world trade, his company would be glad to try out the plan.

He added that in a world where only America had purchasing power, his company wouldn't fare so well in the long run, and would need established international trade to put other countries in the buying market.

Dr. Fussell explained that cuts in tariffs are arranged under the Trade Agreement Act, which expires June 12, 1948, and that tariff policy will come before Congress in January, when new proposals will bring down to 15 percent the ratio of duties collected to value of dutiable goods.

This, she said, would aid European countries to sell and acquire more U. S. dollars; to purchase from us; and to rebuild their own countries. She also pointed out that escape clauses, included in all trade agreements, allow the President to suspend the concession if a flood of imports brings injury to a domestic producer.

Dr. Fussell said that the three committees studying aid to Europe under the Marshall plan had

Optimists Hear Robert Cameron

A.A.A. Member Tells Of Safe Driving Tests

Robert Cameron, of the Automobile Association of America, spoke on "Highway Safety" at a meeting of the Ardmore Optimist Club held Tuesday at the Llanerch Country Club.

Cameron, who lives at 105 S. Narberth Ave., Narberth, said that statistics prove that drivers who have had special driving courses have less than one-half as many accidents as other drivers.

Driving courses, he said, not only teach safe driving but solve sportsmanship and provide theoretical as well as practical training. Courses are being accelerated especially in the public schools throughout the country.

Following his talk, he presented a film entitled "Driver Training in the Schools."

At the next meeting, Tuesday, November 25, Professor A. Fitzgibbons, hypnotist and magician, will be the guest speaker. The Optimist Clubs of Ardmore and Norristown will be guests, and Dr. Clayton Undercoffer, president, will preside.

Protests against the proposed closing have been voiced by interested individuals and servicemen, Township Secretary Evan James declared. The commissioners gave the matter further study, after the announcement of its closing was made last month. But they could discover no valid reason for continuing the operation of the center.

Formal announcement of their findings was read aloud to the public at the Wednesday night meeting.

"The Lower Merion Veterans' Center was established in the fall of 1945 in anticipation of the need for advice and other assistance that our young men and women would experience upon their discharge from military service. These veterans returned home in large numbers in the latter part of 1946 and a few in the early months of 1947. The Township is proud of the efficiency with which the work of the center was performed and of the help extended to our veterans in the difficult task of adjusting themselves to civilian life. Today the work, which the center was established to do can be handled satisfactorily by the Veterans Administration, United States Employment Service and other permanent agencies. In the last five months, only 12 residents of Lower Merion Township have been discharged from the service.

"The Board of Township Commissioners at its meeting in October, 1947, decided to terminate the activities of the Veterans Center at the end of the present year. Subsequently the commissioners were requested by representatives of various American Legion posts to give the matter further consideration and have done so. The commissioners are still of their original opinion that the Veterans' Service Center has served the purpose for which it was established and that its continuance can no longer be justified. The Veterans' Service Center, as a Township function, will accordingly cease operation December 31, 1947."

L. M. Chest Drive Far Below Quota

Overbrook Highest District With 90 P. C. of Goal Reported

Officials of the current Community Chest fund drive announced this week that less than half of the 18 local districts have reached the halfway mark of their quotas. Volunteer workers have been urged to solicit more local citizens than ever before to realize the $8,925,000 goal which was set as the minimum need for the top operation of the Philadelphia area's health, youth and social agencies.

The best records to date have been those of Overbrook, 90 percent of its quota raised; Bryn Mawr, 88.4 percent; Haverford, 75.3 percent; Old Cynwyd, 59.6 percent; Penn Valley, 59.5 percent; Wynnewood, 59.2 percent, and Merion Park, 53.9 percent.

Other districts have reported as follows: Ardmore, 31.8 percent; Bala-Cynwyd Heights, Merion, Rosemont and Villanova, each slightly over 40 percent; Narberth, 26.2 percent; Penn Wynne-Overbrook/Hills, 23.8 percent; Ashland, 18.9 percent; St. Asaph's, 29.8 percent, and Gladwyne, 28.7. Bala has reported no contributions.

As a whole, the area from Overbrook through Ardmore has collected 54.6 percent, or $60,830 collected of a quota of $111,412. Haverford through Villanova, 65.6 percent of a $93,620 quota, and Bala-Cynwyd, 38.7 percent of a $19,700 quota.

Two Injured in Early Morning Collision

Two men were treated for lacerations at Bryn Mawr Hospital early Monday morning, after their car crashed into another at Old Buck Lane and Lancaster Pike. Kenneth Brookes, 26, of Dillsburg, Pa., was treated for lacerations of the nose, and Russell Erwin, 27, of 30 South Line, Lancaster, for lacerations of the lower lip, when the car driven by John W. Snoke, of 109 North Eighth St., Lemoyne, Pa., failed to see another car ahead and crashed into it at 210 A. M.

The second car, driven by John F. O'Brien, of 209 Marlboro Rd., Ardmore, turning around and crashed into the right front fender of the first. O'Brien was uninjured.

THINKING OUT LOUD

Copyright 1947 by CHARLES A. WRIGHT

At our 15th college class reunion we were all called upon to tell how and what we were doing and, in particular, how many children we had. Most of us reported one or two; a few of the boys were able to report three or four, but then one classmate got up and proudly reported that he was the father of seven. None of us ever made a very serious effort to break his record and it looked as if that score would stand unchanged. But at our 25th reunion this year our record-breaking classmate said he wanted to change his report; he was now the father of eight!

What with the high cost of this and that, we never got around to envying our classmate until recently. But this year our two youngsters are off to college and at times the house seems as lonely as a tomb. We almost wish there were half a dozen more coming along at various ages. Still, what with the high cost of this and that, we think it just as well that there are not.

Kids of high school age are around the house so little that when they go off to college there are hours in each day when you hardly realize that they are away. But sometimes seem strange with only adults at the table. You miss the times when the boy arrived late for dinner and then immediately said: "Mother, can't we rush things a bit? I've got a date to-night." Or the nights when the boy or girl were out late at a dance, or party and you couldn't get to sleep until they got home. Getting off to work in the morning loses part of its zest when there is no necessity to get a sleepy youngster up and on the way to school.

You have a sudden pang of emptiness as you walk past the boy's or the girl's room and realize that there's no one sleeping there.

In spite of what they have anticipated, all new parents are amazed when they realize how much difference a child makes in a home. Long before you knew how you were going to love that child, but when you first see him with his little red face and sleepy eyes and chubby hands, it comes like a flash that your past idea of love was as something pale by comparison.

And each momentary crisis in his life makes you love him all the more. The sicknesses which every child gets are worrisome, but they have their compensations. After you've sat up all night with a youngster who is dependent on your care, you realize how much greater your love has grown since the day before.

When you've only one child, you sometimes get thinking: "I love this little one too much. If anything should happen to him, I wouldn't be able to face life again. It would be better to have another, so then, if we lost one, the pang would not be as great."

But after the second child comes along you realize that love does not dilute itself that way. If anything, you love each of them even more than you loved your first born by himself. We are sure that our classmate with eight children finds his love ample to give a full share to each.

All this has gone through our minds as we have debated whether or not our daughter should come home for the Thanksgiving holidays. We know our son will be here, because he'll get a lift in a friend's car. But the girl is farther from home and none of her friends are driving this way.

We talked it over with the Little Woman and agreed that, gosh, yes, we'd love to have Daughter home, but, gosh, on the other hand, it would take a lot of money for train fare. And after all, Daughter wouldn't get home until Thanksgiving morning and she'd be tired from traveling all night and she'd have to be starting back on Sunday.

Daughter, who for her years has an unusual realization that family finances stretch only so far, wrote us that she, too, didn't think the short trip would be worth all the cost.

We said to ourselves, well, that settles it, because, after all, she

200,000 New Phones Since End of War

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has added nearly 200,000 new telephones in Philadelphia and nearby Pennsylvania counties since the end of the war. Carl R. Freehafer, vice president and general manager of the company, said Tuesday evening at the annual "get-together" of local telephone employees, at Radnor High School, Wayne.

"This is the all-time record for new installations and it has been accompanied by a record-breaking construction program," he added. "The company has been opening new central offices, erecting new buildings, placing hundreds of miles of new cable and wire lines, and making additions to virtually every existing central office. Much work has been done, and much more remains to be completed just as fast as we can."

Watchtower Society Will Hold Convention Here

More than 25,000 persons are expected to attend the Watchtower Convention, Nov. 21, 22 and 23, in Philadelphia's Convention Hall, 34th St. below Spruce. The Assembly, sponsored by Jehovah's Witnesses and the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, is part of a world-wide educational campaign among all persons of any race, color or religious creed. The meetings will be climaxed by an address by N. H. Knorr, president of the Bible and Tract Society.

Secretly we began wishing she would come home, expense or no expense. But, on the other hand, we reasoned, if she did decide to come home it would probably be too late to get a reservation.

That got us wondering and we decided to call up the railroad and find out. They said "yes" and before we knew it we had put our names in for reservations both ways and promised to pick them up on Monday.

Then on the next day we got a letter from Daughter saying she had decided definitely not to come home for the holidays. She probably got our letter about the reservations at about the same time.

So now we don't quite know if she'll be home or not and one of the happy things about having children is that there are so many times when you don't know what's going to happen until it does happen. You keep wondering and that keeps you from worrying about any troubles you might think you might have.

One thing we know is that, whether we're all together for Thanksgiving Dinner or not, we have many things to be thankful for. We don't need eight children, like our classmate. We've hearts full of thanks for our two.

Narberth School News

Honor Day was held November 14 at Narberth Public School when 33 pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades placed their names on the Honor Roll.

Honor students in the sixth grade were: second honor, Bob Nuebelick; first honor, Charles Stevens, Jill Morrill, George Potter, Jean Lee Goldsborough, Corky Bunting and Jim McEnaney.

Seventh graders who received honors were: second honor, George Barclay, Joanne McClintock, Wallace Graham, Irma Hall, James Watson, Bob Webb; first honor, Walter Gorin, Kathryn Nelson, Bill Hoeschle, Bettie Oberdorfer, Ted Merkel, Helen Redman, Fred Miller.

Members of the eighth grade who placed their names on the Honor Roll were: second honor, Eleanor Burton, Mike Casey, Jackie Cotter, Bob Sent, Marguerite Strickler, Patty Marshall; first honor, Constance Boney, Paul Cooper, Diane Cuthbert, Dick Gillis, Jim McDill and Patsy McEnaney.

N. P. S. played its fifth football game of the season on Wednesday, November 5, with the light team of Friends Central School. It was played away on the Friends Central field, and the final score was 12-0, with Narberth on top.

Ronald Harrison scored the first touchdown in the opening minutes of the game by catching a pass and running it over the goal line. Anthony Mariani made the second touchdown during the third quarter on a short run. Also during the third quarter, each team was penalized fifteen yards for clipping.

Out of the five games Narberth has played, they have won only three. The last game will be played November 18 with St. Margaret's team.

During the summer, W. J. Drennen, supervising principal of Narberth Public School, took a course at the Conservation Education Laboratory for Teachers at Penn State College. Following up this course, Mr. Drennen has given several lectures and has shown colored slides about the subject: "Conservation of Pennsylvania's Natural Resources."

The first of these lectures was presented September 29 in the auditorium of the Strawbridge and Clothier Store of Philadelphia, for the Pennsylvania Federation of Garden Clubs, Eastern Division. The second lecture, on November 3, was given in the home of Mrs. J. Aubrey McCurdy, of Chestnut Hill, to the Wissahickon Garden Club.

Mrs. Roger B. Williams, of 356 Meadow Lane, Merion, entertained at a dinner and bridge at her home Saturday evening.

Nancy Wilson Wed to J. Dunn On Saturday

Miss Nancy Gertrude Wilson, daughter of Mrs. George Searing Wilson, of "Nansar," Haverford, and Jonathan Dickinson Dunn, son of the late Mr. Huston Dunn, of "Dunham," Rosemont, were united in marriage Saturday, at a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Edward D. Paul, the bride wore a gown of white satin and rose point lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves of rose point and a long full skirt and round train of white satin. Her full length veil of French illusion was held by a crown of rose point lace and she carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Miss Janet Hayden, maid of honor, and only attendant for the bride, wore a gown of green satin, with a tight bodice and a full skirt. She wore a brown orchid in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of brown orchids.

C. Newbold T. Dunn served as best man for his brother. A small reception followed the ceremony. Upon their return from a honeymoon in New Orleans and Cuba, Mr. Dunn and his bride will live in Chalfont.

Church Women Hear Talk by Mrs. Moser

The Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church of Ardmore held the annual Thank Offering Dinner Tuesday evening in the Green Room of the church. Mrs. Paul Moser, a native of Kansas, who was sent by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church to study conditions in the Philippines and Siam was the main speaker.

The monthly service day of the Women's Association will be held Tuesday at 10 A. M. in the church.

Township Officials Will Attend Memorial Services

The program of the Lower Merion-Narberth memorial services for servicemen killed during World War I and II to be held November 23, will include selections by the Lower Merion High School band and chorus and memorial addresses by Canon Ernest C. Earp, of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr; the Rabbi Martin Berkowitz, of Temple Adath Israel, Harverford.

Frank Challenger, chairman of the committee in charge of the services, stated this week that high ranking officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard are expected to attend the services. Also expected to attend are representatives of the Lower Merion School Board and Lower Merion Township Board of Commissioners, representatives of Narberth Borough Council, Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., and Fred C. Peters.

Missionary Secretary To Speak in Ardmore

The Rev. R. Dean Goodwin, secretary of the Baptist Home Missionary Society, will speak on "The People at the Crossroads" at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Medical Missionary Society, to be held at 2:30 P. M. Monday, in the Parish House of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Ardmore.

Dr. Goodwin has recently returned from a visit to mission fields in Haiti, Puerto Rico and Cuba. He will illustrate his talk with colored slides.

Hostesses for the meeting will include Mrs. Joseph W. Anderson, Mrs. C. Mervyn Young, Mrs. J. Gillespie Armstrong and Mrs. S. E. Downs.

The missionary society, incorporated in 1809, gives scholarships to medical students who are preparing for missionary work, and maintains cottages in Ventnor for the use of missionaries on furlough.

Frankel Case

within the required 15 days, Frankel applied to the Montgomery County Court, which ordered Lower Merion Township to issue a permit. This was done on July 16.

On August 1, Zoning Ordinance No. 829, changing the zoning of Frankel's property from R-5 to R-3 was adopted by the board of commissioners and became effective ten days later.

Frankel was advised by his attorneys not to begin work on the property in view of the legal fight which loomed. He appealed to the Montgomery County Court, claiming that the new ordinance denied him the use of his property without due process of law and was unconstitutional, according to Article 14 of the Federal Constitution. The Court upheld him. His opponents then filed a list of exceptions to the Court decision, and the case was again reviewed, resulting in Judge Knight's ruling in July of this year.

Merchants Favor

reported the United States' ability to furnish the outside world with most of the requested supplies, and at the same time meet all home demands.

While the audience seemed in accord with the administration's request that 60 percent of the amount planned for the 16 needy nations be in the form of a gift, they expressed doubt of the theory on which the administration based the amount needed.

This included suppositions that prices would decline 12½ percent over the next four years, and that the bread basket behind the iron curtain would be lifted in two years.

Nor did the audience believe that the 16 nations could make good the promises they made to get money, namely, that they would make a production effort equivalent to ours from 1940 to 1944; that they would control their inflation; that they would maintain maximum co-operation with each other; that would would move manpower to deficit areas all over Europe; and that they would standardize their railroad equipment.

One business man asked how European nations who never got along before could produce this team-work now. Dr. Fussell agreed that much of this was wishful thinking.

"However," she said, "faulty as the Marshall plan is, it is at least a start against the threat of world communism, and we must make the try." She concluded by urging the people to write their Congressmen to vote for the Marshall plan, or the European Recovery Plan, as it is to be called in the future.

Preceding Dr. Fussell's talk, Mrs. Thomas L. Kane, of Merion, league president, spoke a few words of welcome, and Mrs. Enos J. Derham, league chairman of economic welfare, presented a sound film, "Round Trip."

Picasso Lithographs on Exhibit at College Union

Forty-six recent lithographs by Picasso are on exhibit in Haverford College Union through Tuesday.

The exhibition, organized by the New York Museum of Modern Art, is open to the public, as is a lecture on Picasso, to be given this evening in the Union by Morris Blackburn, artist and member of the Art Department of Bryn Mawr College.

If the Aces happen to kick off against Radnor, look for several changes. Bill Galluue will be at a halfback post, with Bob DiMarco at center and Hal Lampe, guard. Lower Merion students will hold a gigantic pep rally on Friday afternoon in Downs Gymnasium, with Lou Young, Jr., former L. M. and Dartmouth football captain, among the speakers. Vincent V. Pearce is chairman of the rally.

The traditional bonfire will be staged Friday evening at Chichester Field, with John Dougherty, a senior student, in charge. All Lower Merion coaches and some of the alumni will speak. Members of the team, however, will not be present. Students are scheduled to give the Aces a rousing send-off Saturday, when special buses will leave the school at noon for Villanova Stadium. Eight buses then will transport student rooting sections to the game and running enabled Lower Merion to defeat Chester High, 12-2, last Saturday on the Ardmore field as the Aces rolled to their 12th straight victory. The Monarchs trailed by 0-2 in the second half, Adams streaked 70 and 34 yards to the winning touchdowns. Chester scored a safety in the second period, when the ball rebounded off Graham Hopper's chest in the end zone as he dropped back to punt. Radnor made a while lost to Abington, 26-6, last Saturday when the Aces scored three touchdowns in the last two periods. It was the fifth loss in nine games for the Red Raiders from Wayne.

Dr. Smith Names Eight to Assist in Food Program

Urges Twp. Residents To Help Save Grain For Western Europe

Dr. Harold Wayne Smith, chairman of the Lower Merion Food Conservation Program, this week appointed eight members to the food committee. They include the following:

Mrs. J. A. Wiley, president of the Ardmore Woman's Club; Miss Eleanor Lyons, of the Main Line Soroptimist Club; Mrs. W. E. L. Irwin, of the American Red Cross; Frank A. Dubois, Superintendent of Schools in Lower Merion Township; Dr. B. L. Scott, pastor of the Lower Merion Baptist Church; Dr. David Wilbur Horn, of the Ardmore Rotary Club; H. R. Weaver, of the YMCA, and Robert M. Myers, of the Federation of Churches. In connection with the food program, Dr. Smith issued the following statement:

"This committee addresses its appeal to the citizens of Lower Merion Township to cooperate in the endeavor to save wheat and other grain for the needy countries of Western Europe.

"It is true that many other movements, such as the Friendship Train, Care and Church World Service, will help mitigate conditions abroad. But the need to save grain persists.

"Our slogan is 'Save Wheat.' Make moderate use of bread, rolls and crackers with meals. Cooperate with restaurants that serve bread and rolls only on request. Save a loaf of bread a day. Restrict your use of flour and avoid all kinds of waste.

"There can be no doubt about the need for food and fuel in the countries of Western Europe.

There are conflicting reports, but there is agreement on the fact of basic need. Wheat and rye production is down and there is increased rationing of flour and bread. In spite of the war, indeed because of it, the population of Western Europe is larger than pre-war.

"The best estimates show that Western Europe will need this winter from America 570 million bushels of grain. The amount available for export is only 40 million bushels. This leaves a balance of 100 million bushels to be provided.

Local Reserve Officers Plan Membership Drive

The Valley Forge Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association, will meet this evening at Stewart Armory, Elmwood Park, near Norristown.

The speaker will be Brigadier General Brenton G. Wallace, president of the Main Line Builders' Association, State Director of Housing, and president of the Pennsylvania National Guard Association.

The chapter, which covers the Montgomery County area, will open its membership drive at this meeting. There are 600 active members at present, and the membership goal is 2,000. All wishing further information are asked to call the president, Captain James Beerer, at Norristown 7022.

Hedgerow Theater to Stage World Premier

Students from the area in the production, the first of the season, are Nicholas Sgarro, of 1775 West Chester Pike, Manoa, and Claire Gomborg, of 12 East Eagle Rd., Manoa.

Know Your State

It seems likely that more hunting licenses will be issued in 1947 than at any time before in the history of the Commonwealth. Last year the total was more than 850,000—a number considerably greater than the combined population of the cities of Pittsburgh and Scranton, as reported by the last United States Census.

As pointed out by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce, the enthusiasm for an annual trip into the autumn woods of Pennsylvania, which seems to be growing by leaps and bounds, is a typical American phenomenon. No other great nation of the modern world is still so close to its pioneer traditions as our own. Hunting had once an accepted and even a necessary part in the long struggle which man was forced to make in the settlement of our State and of our Continent. As Herbert Spencer pointed out many years ago, the occupations of men, when they are outmoded by modern forms of recreation, tend to become favorite forms of recreation. It is no longer necessary in Pennsylvania or in any other part of our Nation for men to support their families by their skill with the shotgun or rifle, but the instinct for outdoor adventure seems to grow stronger as its necessity declines.

The pressure of the industrial and commercial life of our large cities is much more foreign to human nature than the alertness, the keenness of sight and the skill in outwitting the wily denizens of our woods and fields which was developed through many thousands of years in man's primitive battle with nature. So that hunting, like fishing, is one of the forms of recreation by which men and women who must spend most of their days in crowded streets away from the smells and sights of the fields and forests seek to re-establish their place in nature and then go back with a stronger sense of reality to their daily tasks.

For nearly twenty-seven years Pennsylvania has been acquiring game lands as breeding grounds and shelters for the wild life of the State. As our population grew and the improvement in rifles and shotguns made protective laws necessary, the Commonwealth has pursued a careful policy designed to provide the greatest possible amount of freedom for its hunters while insuring a continued growth in our population of bear, deer and small game. The success of this policy can readily be shown by the fact that in 1946 the total weight of wild game shot in Pennsylvania's woods was more than 10,000,000 pounds. In these days of food restriction this is not an inconceivable addition to the State's food supply. At the average per capita level of meat consumption, the game killed in Pennsylvania in a year is equivalent to the annual meat requirements for 35,000 persons. So, this form of recreation has a considerable economic value.

AIRING SPORTS

By HARRY ROBERT, KYW Sportscastrer

Football in Downpour Isn't Smart Business

October was one perfect day after another; it was so beautiful you didn't realize it was too dry unless you were a farmer and you just never thought of rain. When the rain did come, it came at night, and lying in bed listening to it pour down, the idea occurred to me, thinking how good it was not to be out in it.

Then came the Saturday Penn and Virginia were meeting, with both still undefeated in November, and that morning I never saw it rain harder in my life. It came down in sheets. I wondered how many would go out to Franklin Field and take it, even if they already had their seats.

It couldn't go on raining that hard, the field had been covered and was all right in the afternoon and I think the game turned out about as it would have on any other day. But it was only by the grace of God that the rain came in the morning instead of the afternoon. Had that happened, the teams would have had to slop through it and those with good sense would have stayed home and heard it on the radio.

The Temple field was described as all mud and water, which was a big handicap to powerful Penn State. And those further east, in New England, did have to take the force of the storm. The crowds were small and undoubtedly spent an unhappy afternoon.

You're wondering what all this is driving at and the idea is nothing exactly new, just this: When are colleges going to get around to recognizing the fact that it's just as silly to play football when the elements are not fit for man or beast, as to play baseball or any other sport? It has always been the tradition in football that the show must go on—but that doesn't make it right. The rule of the theater that the show must go on is for the benefit of the spectators. When football is played in weather into which a well-respecting pig wouldn't venture, the spectators get all the worst of it.

SHOW MUST GO ON NOT ALWAYS WISE

People do go to football games when rain is pouring down, and when it is cutting through their wet clothes like a knife, and most of them escape pneumonia. But it couldn't be said they enjoy it. They're miserable all through the game, miserable in the way home and wish afterward they hadn't been such suckers.

Games played under these conditions seldom decide anything. And certainly they can't be considered fun for the participants, which was originally the idea of playing the games, although that double notion has become slightly archaic.

Dave Ruth was the first I ever heard approach the matter with something like common sense. He saw a football game played under atrocious conditions and asked: "Why don't they call this thing off and play a doubleheader?" They have a lot of stock answers for it. The principal one is that they have no other day on which they could make up the game. But I noticed that Bucknell and N. Y. U. had the good judgement to call theirs off that day, putting it over to Armistice Day the following week. There isn't always a holiday handy, but there are ways to handle it. Every college could add a provisional Saturday at the end of its season. It would be agreed with opponents that if their scheduled date turned out to be simply too rainy for words, the game would be postponed and played the week after the regular season ends.

Nothing is much simpler and except at colleges like Penn where they sell out in advance, it would increase the gate, which seems to be the big idea today. But of course, they won't do it.

Westgate Hills Gridders Gain Playoff Finals

Westgate Hills A. A. footballers will seek their ninth straight win when they meet Tulip Tigers for the championship of the Sandlot Sports Association's middleweight division this Sunday afternoon at the West Chester Pike and Eagle Rd. field in Manoa.

Westgate rolled over Frankford Crusaders, 20-0, last Sunday at Manoa to reach the playoff finals. Joe Leonard's club got underway early in the second period when Jim Killgore tossed to Art Jones for the first six-pointer. The play was good for a total of 20 yards.

A few minutes later, Jim Shaw Westgate tackled, intercepted a Frankford forward pass and raced 35 yards to a touchdown behind beautiful blocking by Danny Dougherty and Hiller teammates. Lee Schwartz made good on both extra point attempts.

A 65-yard sustained drive in the third quarter culminated in Jack Birmingham's plunge for the third Westgate touchdown. Birmingham plunged over from the three-yard line.

In all, Westgate's formidable forward wall yielded only three first downs to Frankford. One of the league's smallest players, the Hillers' Dougherty, again gave a scintillating exhibition on both offense and defense.

Steve Wochy to Start For Rockets Saturday

Steve Wochy, right winger who has scored 16 points in his first 15 games, will start for Philadelphia's Rockets Saturday night when they oppose Lynn Patrick's New Haven Ramblers at the Arena rink, 45th and Market Sts.

The Rockets at the moment are even with New Haven, having beaten the Ramblers once, while losing another encounter. Next Wednesday night, Nov. 26, the Rockets will play Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians on the same arena ice.

VETS, NARBERTH PASSERS PACE M. L. LEAGUE RACE

The Lower Merion Veterans and Narberth, top dogs in the young Main Line League basketball race, were being pressed closely by Brookline and Norristown as the league entered its fourth week.

The Vets made it four straight victories by thumping Wayne, 59-41, on Monday night at Narberth, winner of its first three starts, was late. Brookline, defeated by the Maroon in the loop opener, topped its fourth straight league game by trouncing Jenkintown, 74-56, on Monday.

Thus the Mitchell and Ness five along with Norristown's high-flying Orioles (winners of two out of three contests) remained but a step behind the league leaders. Wednesday night's Vet-Narberth clash decided, at least temporarily, the Main Line leader.

Bobby Hackett's Veterans have two important games carded for Thanksgiving week. On Monday night, Jenkintown will get its first glimpse of the defending titleholder. The Jenks have lost three games, all by high scores. Their main weakness appears to be an inability to withstand the opposition's second-half onslaught.

In losing to Narberth, 74-40; Norristown, 73-58, and Brookline, Coach Hal Von Goldberg's five was behind by only slim halftime margins, only to blow sky-high in the second half.

On Wednesday night, Lower Merion plays host to Coatesville at Lower Merion High. Coatesville, after a rocky start, whipped into the win column with a 60-51 decision over improving Elkins Park. Don Markward's 27 points paced the Stealers. As in the past, Markward is the big gun in the Coatesville attack, but this year Joe Gilmer has been added to the Lakers' scoring potential.

Coatesville will also meet Wayne's Italian-Americans at Radnor High on Monday night. Wayne, although winless in four starts, has lost to the four top teams in the league, and should be ready to hit a winning stride.

Elkins Park, which features Bobby Hart, last year's Gettysburg

College co-captain, travels to Bala Cynwyd Junior High Tuesday night to meet Narberth. The Boroughts have won three contests and have been the surprise of the league. Ted Williams, the former Haverford School star, has been particularly impressive for Torchiana's fast-breaking quintet.

The week's activities will be closed out on Thursday night when Norristown visits the Arena to meet Herb Good's Brooks in a preliminary contest to the Warriors' pregame.

What Good's ironclad defensive tactics can do against the "runningest team in the league" remains to be seen. Carmen Schaivo and Bob DeWees have paced the Vets in a youngster combination that Joe Fay has placed on the floor for the Orioles.

George Gaskill, Brookline forward, seemed to have regained his old prewar form. The rangy Brook rapped up 23 points in Monday night's game with Jenkintown. Young Bobby McDermott, an outstanding newcomer from Friends Central, popped in 18 points.

Big Don Davis, L. M. center, is another of the form that made him a basketball terror before the war. Evans, a bit of a disappointment with the Vets last year, has looked great, especially on rebounds, and tallied 14 points against Wayne.

Moon Mullin scored 11 and Bink Manning 10 tallies in the 59-41 victory.

Don Markward, Coatesville's veteran forward, is right back in front of Main Line scorers. The Steeler ace has scored 73 points in three games.

Don't You Agree?

Starting next month, and continuing indefinitely, we shall show through our advertisements in this publication the story of the development and influence of water throughout history—beginning with the oasis in early barbarian days and including the famous reservoirs known as Solomon's Pools. From here we go on through the years, covering the time of the Roman Empire, the London fire and even a narrative concerning the famous seeker of the "Fountain of Youth," Ponce de Leon. Each story will be illustrated to depict the era, and will present enjoyable reading.

These are just a few notes on the stories we intend to present in showing the importance of water and its necessity to mankind throughout history.

From the crude ways of early times, through the years and up to our present scientific methods of water purification, we lead you to the pure Springfield Water. Interesting to you and your health—Don't You Agree?

Ardmore Wins On Pass Over Upper Darby, 6-0

Scoring in the second quarter Ardmore Junior High defeated Upper Darby Junior High, 7-0, last week at Ardmore in the Main Line series with four victories.

Cal Mobley, Ardmore left halfback, tossed a 14-yard aerial to Left End Fred Pilliaro for the score. Mobley then added the extra point with a line smash. The scoring pass topped a 65-yard Ardmore march.

The touchdown drive was touched off when Center James Andrews blocked a punt by Bob Reynolds on Upper Darby's 44. Set back to their own 35 on a penalty, the Ardmore gridders set up the payoff pass in two plays. Mobley picked up 20 yards around right end and Pilliaro, on an end-around play, sprinted to the 14.

Upper Darby's best chance occurred late in the fourth quarter. The Junior Royals drove 26 yards to a first down on Ardmore's 15, only to lose the ball on downs on the 13. The 32-minute game ended two plays later.

Havertown AA's Unbeaten Eleven Plays Cols

Havertown A. A. footballers, victorious over Post 17, of Chester, in their last start, will seek their sixth straight Delco League victory this Sunday afternoon, playing the undefeated unbeaten loop leader, at Veterans' Park. Manoa and Darby Rds. Kickoff will be at 2:30 P. M.

Scoring in every period but the fourth, Havertown's high-flying football team triumphed over Post 17, 25 to 6, last Sunday at Veterans' Park gridiron. Sam Venuto, former Havertown High star and spaulver of the Havertown team, was lost to the Blue and Gold eleven, but the locals still managed to win easily.

Striving on touchdown in the opening period and two in the second, Havertown rolled to a 19-0 halftime lead. The locals accounted for another touchdown in the fourth quarter before Chester finally was able to tally on a 35-yard end run in the concluding minutes.

Havertown scored for the first time early in the game in the fourth quarter when they drove a poor punt which gave the Hill-toppers possession on the Chester 10. Three plays later, Bob Marchhausen smacked center for the score. Bud Havlin's try for the point was blocked, but the Havertown huskies rebounded a few minutes later when Ken Barrett intercepted a pass on the Chester 20. Spaulver of the Chester rallied its forces and finally won possession on the 10 after a Havertown fourth down plunge fell inches shy of the necessary yardage.

Only a few minutes later, Charlie Lancer blocked a Chester punt at midfield and Guard Paul Dooling gathered it in on the fly and streaked 25 yards to score. This time Havlin's placement split the uprights.

Ken Barrett's runback of a high Chester punt provided Havertown with another opening in the third quarter. Barrett brought it back to the invaders' 19. A pass, Guilianni to Bruce Stratton, gave the Havertown possession on the Chester eight. Three plays later, Guilianni plunged over for the score, hitting right tackle from the four.

THE SPORTS SCENE

By JACK FORD

Lower Merion High's football coach, he recalls. All were fifth graders. They were members of the Oakmont outfit again the following season, then played for Haverford Junior High and the high school.

The trio played for the Fords in 1939 when Haverford won the Suburban Big Six championship, and Jones and Bullock won All-Philadelphia recognition.

All three boys were in the service, so they have compiled the unusual record of having played together in elementary, junior and senior high school and college over a period of 15 years.

Johnston joined the trio later. He is a Junior at Haverford College, while Jones is a senior and Neuhaus and Bullock, sophomores.

You won by 51-7 last year, didn't you, Dick?

"Yeah," said the Lower Merion mentor, "but I'll be satisfied if we have just one more point than they do this year. This is the best club Radnor has had in the past couple years. I saw them play once, and our scouts have looked 'em over a few times."

"We were particularly impressed with Radnor's line, a little Negro boy who's awfully fast and their passer."

"The game could be close. I'm looking for a hard battle. Anything can happen in this game," he dolefully concluded.

Jules Prevost, popular Radnor High coach, and the Red Raiders' football captain have been invited to speak at the Lower Merion High rally Friday afternoon.

Vincent V. Pearce, chairman of the L. M. rally, doesn't think it strange to invite your rival coach and captain to such an affair. "It happens occasionally," he revealed.

Bill Laramy, Oakmont School principal and coach of the Oakmonters' unbeaten, untied and unscored-on grid team, points out that four former Oakmont grid stars are members of the Haverford College team which will meet Swarthmore this Saturday afternoon.

The quartet comprises Roland (Pappy) Neuhaus, guard; Jack Bullock, end; Artie Jones, halfback; and Bob Johnston, guard. Neuhaus, Bullock and Johnston are certain to see plenty of action in Haverford's football finale. Jones, however, one of the greatest grid-ders ever produced at Haverford High, will be sidelined by a foot injury. He earned Little All-American honors while a member of Haverford College's unbeaten 1932 team.

Bullock, Jones and Neuhaus started playing together at Oak-
